SAVE TIME AND MONEY WHILE VERIFYING PROOF OF RESIDENCY WITH THOMSON REUTERS.

In order to protect taxpayers and school district resources, it is important to verify student residency as it validates the funding provided to each district. Thomson Reuters CLEAR ID Confirm™ with Batch searching can help districts quickly and effectively verify the residency of its students to ensure it is receiving the appropriate funding needed for its student population.

CLEAR ID Confirm helps you verify residency accurately and efficiently, saving you time and money. With a batch search you can avoid looking for one subject at a time by submitting one file with thousands of names, addresses, or other identifying information. Compare your data inputs to our vast collection of public and propriety records, including risk flags. In return, a verification score will generate allowing you to quickly flag false addresses associated to your subjects and determine if further investigation is necessary.

You can feel confident that you are being alerted to any potential risks such as:

- Non-resident students attending district schools with closed enrollment policies
- Non-resident students attending district schools with open enrollment policies, but students are not appropriately identified as open enrollment students, thus relinquishing the annual transfer of funding from the student's resident district
- Out-of-state students attending district schools

Below is an example of how Thomson Reuters CLEAR ID Confirm with Batch searching can quickly verify and determine residency records for further investigation.
